Dear Sir:

Your letter to the Metropolitan Museum of Art has been turned over to us for reply.

The piece which you enclose and which we are herewith returning is not a coin but a piece of so-called jewelry, probably for a watchfob or part of a cheap necklace or something like that. It is made in some similitude to a Greek coin but is nowhere near a direct copy. Consequently the thing is worthless.

Very truly yours,

Curator
